

Helping you maintain a skilled workforce and a competitive edge

Wider Skills offers a cost-effective way for your employees to keep their skills, knowledge and professional status up-to-date.

How it works

A skilled, motivated and engaged workforce is an asset to any employer and can give your business an edge over your competitors. So why not help your employees to develop their skills and maintain their professional status by offering access to Wider Skills?

Our professional registration and job-related training schemes operate via salary deduction or salary sacrifice, providing an affordable way for your employees to pay by spreading costs over a period of time.

Employees can study at any level with any training provider, full or part-time, including online courses and distance learning.

Wider Skills provides an easy and cost-effective way for you to support the professional development of your employees. Well-supported employees typically feel a greater commitment to their employer. In this way, Wider Skills can help to reduce the costs of staff turnover and recruitment.
